Madison schools studying cuts

By Randy Vaughn
Staff writer

Budget restraints in the Madison School District may force more staff cuts for the 1992-93 school year, officials said Thursday night.

The Madison School Board met in closed session for two hours, discussing the economic problems which could force honorable dismissal of up to 18 staff members.

The board will hold a special meeting in closed session to make final decisions on possible June dismissals on Thursday, March 12, followed by a state-mandated public hearing at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

day, March 19, at the board office, 1707 Fourth St.

State law requires the board to notify teachers 60 days before the school year ends if there is a chance they will not be hired for the next school year.

"We are considering some staff reduction, but I can't speculate if there will be cuts or how many because we are in negotiations with the teachers' union right now," Superintendent Dan Kostencki said.

Cuts in staff and programs, as well as administrative, procedural and vendor changes, are possible, Kostencki said.

Deficit spending prior to 1988, enrollment and tax base declines, and state fund cuts have burdened the Madison School District budget, Kostencki said.

About $1 million has been cut since 1988 to resolve much of the problem, Kostencki said, adding that long-term financing through bond issues to overcome short-term financial problems has also helped.

But economic problems remain despite the district operating "in the black" the last two years (See CUTS, Page 14A)

Confusion

Voters have tough time identifying their state rep

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

"Who's my state representative?" For the next 10 years, that will be a tough question for many area voters. Under the new state legislative districts drawn up on basis of the 1990 census, Chouteau is the only area township that is all in one representative district.

For the first time in state history, the new districts do not follow precinct lines. As a result, more than a quarter of the voters in the Quad City area can't tell their state representative district based on their precinct.

"I have to believe an awful lot of voters aren't going to know who their representative is until they are handed their ballot," said John Belcoff, Madison County Democratic chairman.

The Quad City area is divided among three state representative districts. The incumbents are Reps. Jim McPike, D-Alton; Monroe Flinn, D-Bellefonte; and Wyvetter Young, D-East St. Louis — are all unopposed in the March 17 Democratic Primary Election.

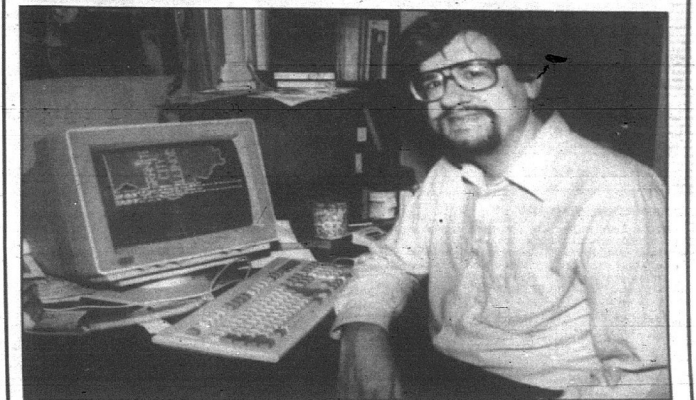

Flinn will face former St. Clair County Coroner James Radden. Young and McPike are unopposed.

"Maze man" John Knoderer and his computer-generated maze of Illinois.

Man's mazes amaze public

By Randy Vaughn
Staff writer

Granite City resident John Knoderer does not know how to describe himself, but others know him as the "maze man."

Knoderer, 40, has worked 14 years as a custom programmer but only recently combined his computer knowledge with his hobby of working mazes.

He has created a computerized maze program that can print out a maze in any number of shapes, sizes, and colors. The program evolved out of four years of effort, he said.

"There are a lot of computer programs that create rectangular mazes, but you can get those out of any book. My program offers an infinite number of mazes in an infinite number of shapes and sizes with a personalized message inside," he said.

The message serves as internal borders that form part of the puzzle itself, he said, adding that options are open for very creative messages. "I can make it say anything, but my favorite messages build on puns surrounding the word 'maze,' such as 'You amaze me.'"

Knoderer will customize a maze for anyone for a holiday gift, a special occasion, or just for fun, he said.

GCC will get grant for training center

By Scott Queen
Staff writer

The Granite City campus of Belleville Area College will get a $2.2 million state grant for construction of an industrial training center.

BAC President Joe Cipfl said he learned of the 75 percent matching grant just this week. Cipfl said the college already has the necessary matching funds.

"This is a major breakthrough, given the current sluggish economic climate," Cipfl said. "We've been working on doing this at BAC for some time."

Gov. Jim Edgar was to appear in Granite City Saturday afternoon to officially announce the grant.

"This is a major breakthrough, given the current sluggish economic climate."

— Joe Cipfl
BAC president

The grant, from the Build Illinois program, had been approved last year by the state, but was frozen because of financial problems.

Cipfl, who requested the grant more than two years ago, said the money could be released within the month. If so, he said architects would begin work immediately. He said construction could begin this year.

The industrial training center project will require conversion of a 30,000-square-foot gymnasium to classrooms and laboratories, Cipfl said. There also will be an addition to the back of the building.

"This will provide a needed building block for the Metro East," Cipfl said. "We're very excited."

Offered at the center will be training in air conditioning and heating, welding, electronics and plumbing, Cipfl said.

Warriors advance to sectional semis

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

The Warrior basketball team will be walking into the lion's den Wednesday. But it's better there than nowhere at all.

Granite City won its eighth straight game Friday with a 60-54 win over Jerseyville at Memorial Gym. The Warriors are now 29-7 and will play the host Collinsville Kahoks (20-7) in the Collinsville Sectional semifinals Wednesday in a 7:30 p.m. game at Fletcher Gym.

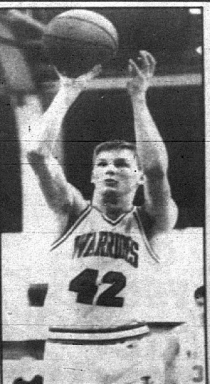

It's the first regional championship and the first 28-win season for the Warriors since 1986. They got 16 points and nine rebounds from 6-9 senior Jeff Smith, while Drake Marshall (15), Leroy Samuels (14) and Brian Smith (10) also were in double figures.

"It feels good to win 20 games," said coach Bill Ohlendorf. "Our defense and free throws at the end made the difference."

The Warriors made 14 of 16 free throws in the fourth quarter. They trailed 43-38 with seven minutes left, but outscored the Panthers (24-3) 15-2 over the next five minutes. Jerseyville hurt itself with 28 turnovers.

The Warriors were the third seed in the 16-team sectional and Collinsville is the No. 2 seed. Top-seeded Jacksonville beat East St. Louis 70-61.

Hyland was responsible for many civic improvements

Robert Hyland, the prominent St. Louis leader and a nationally known broadcast innovator who died late Thursday of cancer, was praised by both civic leaders and business associates.

Mr. Hyland, 71, was senior vice president of CBS Radio and general manager of KMOX and KLOU and was honored with many civic and industry awards, including 1988 St. Louis Man of the Year.

Funeral services for Mr. Hyland will be at 11 a.m. Monday at the St. Louis Cathedral, 441 Lindell Blvd. Burial will be private, and there will be no visitation.

In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to the St. Louis Zoo or to St. Anthony's Medical Center/Hyland Center, two of his many civic endeavors.

The Suburban Journals and KMOX cooperated on a number of projects, including the annual Women of Achievement, which honors civic contributions by outstanding St. Louis-area women.

6 sentenced for felonies

Guilty pleas to felony charges against six local residents in the Madison County Circuit Court at Edwardsville have resulted in the disposal of their cases.

Lance E. Hutchinson, 27, of the 2200 block of East 25th Street, Granite City, was sentenced March 2 to seven years in an Illinois state prison for residential burglary.

The sentence was handed down by Circuit Judge Charles V. Romani Jr.

The charge stems from a Feb. 8 occurrence in which a resident of the 2600 block of Lincoln Avenue returned to his home and found Hutchinson removing a video cassette recorder.

Jamie D. Riggs, 18, of the 1700 block of Walnut St., Granite City, was sentenced March 2 to two years of probation on each of two charges of burglary. Judge Romani ordered that the sentences run concurrently. The charges stem from Oct. 19, 1991, incidents in which Riggs burglarized a 1982 Chevy Malibu and a 1984 Chevy Camaro.

Daniel K. Bieser, 21, of the 2200 block of Washington Avenue, Granite City, was sentenced March 2 to two years of probation for unlawful delivery of a controlled substance. Associate Judge J. Lawrence Keshner also fined Bieser $864. The charge stems from a Sept. 19, 1991, incident in which Bieser sold more than one gram but less than 15 grams of cocaine.

Roberto V. Clark, 19, of Illinois Highway 162, was sentenced March 2 to two years of probation for unlawful possession of cannabis. Judge Keshner also fined Clark $1,569. The charge stems from an Aug. 21, 1991, incident in which Clark possessed more than 10 grams but less than 30 grams of cannabis. The charge had been reduced from unlawful delivery of cannabis.

Janet M. Denson, 27, of the 1500 block of Second Street, Madison, was sentenced March 2 to one year of probation for possession of a controlled substance. The sentence was handed down by Judge Keshner. In a Dec. 17, 1991, incident, Denson used someone else's prescription to obtain acetaminophen with codeine from a Granite City pharmacy. A charge of unlawful acquisition of a controlled substance was dropped.

Darren Dandridge, 27, of the 900 block of Jackson Street, Madison, was sentenced March 2 to one year of probation for possession of more than 30 but less than 500 grams of cannabis. Judge Keshner also fined Dandridge $241. The charge stems from a Jan. 28 incident.

Huck's robber gets nine years

A Brighton man was sentenced to nine years in prison Thursday for the armed robbery last summer of a Huck's convenience store.

Vernon E. Wilkinson, 21, pleaded guilty to the Aug. 10 armed robbery of Huck's, 2430 Pontoon Road. Chief Criminal Judge Edward C. Ferguson sentenced Wilkinson to nine years in a state prison. Assistant State's Attorney Rich Rybak had sought a 15-year sentence.

Wilkinson and a second man, Lawrence Gettleman Jr., 25, of Bunker Hill, entered Huck's on Aug. 10, where Wilkinson asked for a pack of cigarettes, displayed a knife and then took about $173, authorities said.

According to police, the robbery occurred as the store's clerk was opening her cash register to give Wilkinson change. Wilkinson then came around the counter, displayed the knife and a tire tool before grabbing all the cash from the door and fleeing on foot.

The pair were stopped minutes later in a car at the intersection of Illinois 111 and Pontoon Road by a Pontoon Beach patrolman. Granite City police, however, had already been pursuing the pair.

The clerk, who was unarmed in the incident, later identified Wilkinson.

Gettleman has pleaded guilty to the armed robbery charge and is in the Madison County jail awaiting sentencing.

Madison County State's Attorney William Haine said that the apprehension of the pair was "another example of excellent police work by patrol officers."

Haine said that the Granite City officers' quick response saved the day.

"They performed in an exemplary manner that not only resulted in saving lives but in apprehending the criminals," said Haine, who said he would personally thank Police Chief Don Knight.

Nurse, mortician seek GOP county coroner nomination

A trained mortician and an experienced emergency room nurse are vying for the Republican nomination for Madison County coroner.

The candidates, Rich Hampson, 41, of 6982 E. Frontage Road, Worden, and Larry Naylor, 41, of 785 State St., Wood River, disagree on which training best suits the office.

Hampson, the trained nurse, said the primary responsibility of a coroner is to determine why people died. Morticians, he said, work with people already dead.

"If you want to know why people died, you need to know why people are alive," he said. His nurse training will help him make those determinations, Hampson said.

Naylor cites his mortician experience in both the military and the private sector.

He has operated Larry's License and Title Service in Bethalto since 1983, but he is a licensed funeral director and embalmer and a cardiopulmonary resuscitation instructor.

A Navy reservist, Naylor was called to active duty during the Persian Gulf war and was assigned to Dover Air Force Base in Delaware, where he supervised handling of the remains of those killed in the war.

Responsibilities included identification, preparation and shipping the remains to their destinations.

Naylor said he worked closely with the FBI and the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology and the experience led to certification for handling mass disasters.

He has a degree in mortuary

Rich Hampson
science from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and

Larry Naylor
has worked for funeral homes in Wood River, Staunton, Quincy and Collinsville. Naylor said that, if nominated in the primary, he would enroll in a death investigation course at St. Louis University this summer.

Hampson is the nurse manager of the emergency room and intensive care unit at Centerville Township Hospital.

He said he has 20 years of emergency-room experience, five years of experience in occupational health care, and was a St. Clair County deputy coroner in 1979 and 1980.

Hampson has a nursing degree from St. Louis Municipal School of Nursing and a bachelor's degree in business administration from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Both candidates said they would respond personally to death scenes.

Incumbent Coroner Dallas Burke "always sends out her assistants," Naylor complained.

"If elected, I will provide the primary response in all cases,"

Both Republican candidates pledged to work closely with law enforcement and both said they would involve the office more closely in programs aimed at preventing premature death, such as driver education and drug and alcohol abuse education.

Both said they think the coroner office can be operated more efficiently and economically.

Burke, of Alton, is unopposed in his bid for the Democratic nomination for the office. She will face the winner of the Naylor-Hampson race this November.

Three judges in Democratic race

Three experienced judges are battling for the Democratic nomination for an Illinois Supreme Court seat from the 5th Judicial District.

Two of the candidates are Moses Harrison and Charles Chapman, both area residents and members of the 5th District Appellate Court in Mount Vernon. The third is Carl Becker of Red Bud, who retired in 1989 after 27 years as a county and circuit judge.

The district comprises the state's 37 southernmost counties, including Madison and St. Clair. The winner of the race will face the Republican nominee, either Don Weber of Edwardsville or John Rhine of Mt. Carmel.

Harrison, 59, of Caseyville, said his qualifications were superior to his opponents.

"I am offering the voters over 10 years' experience as a judge, including 12 years as an appellate judge," he said. "None of my opponents in either party has ever been elected to a leadership position."

Harrison was in private practice for 15 years, then served six years as a circuit judge in the 3rd Judicial Circuit as (Madison and Bond counties), including two terms as chief judge.

He was appointed to the appellate court in 1979, elected to the position in 1980 and retained in 1982. Harrison has served two terms as that court's chief judge and was elected by other judges as statewide chairman of the Illinois Appellate Courts for one term.

Chapman, 49, of rural Edwardsville, said he had done "everything that's required of a judge and more," including teaching and furthering his own education.

"I've shown a high level of energy and a willingness to work," he said.

Chapman was in private practice for 11 years, then served as a judge in the 3rd Circuit from 1979 to 1988, when he was elected to the appellate court.

He has completed work for a master's degree in economics at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and will receive a master's degree in law from the University of Virginia in May.

In 1984, Chapman was named "Outstanding State Trial Judge in the United States" by the Association of Trial Lawyers of America.

Becker, 63, said he had heard far more criminal cases than Harrison or Chapman.

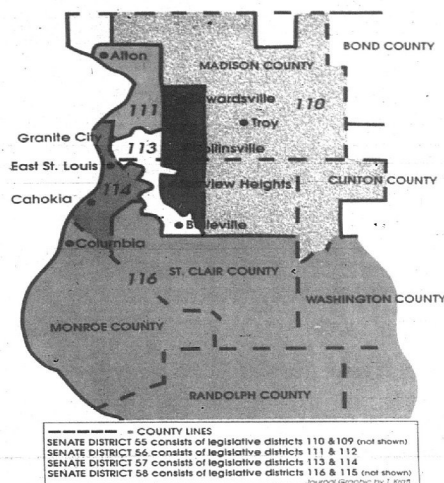

Becker also said he had more experience in rural areas, having served many years as county judge and resident circuit judge in Randolph County.

And he said he had more experience than any judge in Illinois in hearing mental health and prison cases, having heard all cases from the Menard Correctional Center and Chester Mental Health Center for 25 years.

"I have a proven record of honesty, integrity and fairness, and I've always fought for the values," he said.

Becker alleged improper political influence in St. Clair County courts when he ran unsuccessfully for the Supreme Court in 1988. He said he had not raised the issue this year because the Supreme Court has appointed a committee to investigate corruption in state courts.

The extraordinary life of Ruth Simon

84-year-old senator's mother was abandoned, unwanted as child

By Alene Hill
Correspondent

Ruth Simon speaks softly when she recounts her life. Her humor, grit and devotion have sustained her through her adventurous and sometimes difficult life.

"It really is important to have the right attitude and always have plenty of hope. You have to look on the bright side. The rough spots don't last too long," she explained.

With the peace of one who has come to terms with her past, the Collinsville resident relates her early childhood, which began when she was found abandoned near Fort Dodge, Iowa.

The police, unable to find any information about her parents, turned the baby over to the Lutheran Children's Home Finding Society.

Ruth was baptized there on March 29, 1907. Doctors estimated her to be 1 week old, so she celebrates March 22 as her birthday.

A Lutheran minister servicing hospitals brought her to St. Louis, where she was adopted by Julius and Sophia Tolzman.

Her adoptive mother died of spinal meningitis when she was 3. She was then sent to live with her mother's sister and husband, Amelia and Gustav Troemel. Two years later, her bereaved adopted father committed suicide.

"I was ill with whooping cough, a serious illness in those days. My father would come to visit me every day. He suddenly stopped coming and I was told later he died. No one mentioned suicide," she recalled.

Only later, after overhearing a conversation, did she figure out what had really happened to her father.

Life with the Troemels was not pleasant, and they did not hesitate letting her know she was unwanted, she recalled.

She attended a Lutheran school and it was while she was at school she came to rely on God's help to get her through life.

"I sensed He was protecting me. I had no one else and I couldn't talk to anyone. I knew my mother would find out and it would make it that much worse," she remarked.

It was her strong faith in God that saw her through the hardships of those early years and prepared her for adulthood.

Ruth Simon's father died when she remembers, nearly 65 years ago, meeting Martin Simon for the first time at a basketball game.

"If I had been acting sensibly, I would have never met him," she recalled.

"I was with my friend, Alice, and we were late for the game because of a snow storm. We were seated in the middle of a group of seminary students, and we decided it would be fun to root for the other team as they were announced," she recalled.

"At the end of the game, Martin and his friend asked if they could take us home and Alice said 'yes.' He walked me home and then walked Alice home because we wouldn't ride the streetcar," she said.

She remembers Martin calling her the next day, even though she had not given him her phone number or even her name.

"He phoned the next afternoon and asked me to a musical at the seminary. I hadn't given him my phone number or even told him my name. He had asked Alice about me when he walked her home."

Shortly after Martin Simon's ordination as a Lutheran minister, they were married and sent to China.

The young honeymooners sailed 23 days to China and 1,200 miles up the Yangtze River to Wansien, Szechwan, China.

"It was beautiful scenery, really gorgeous," she recalled.

They enjoyed learning the language, but the political strife in China during the 1920s cut their stay short. They were forced to flee with only one suitcase for Shanghai, where they continued their studies until they were called home.

After a rough boat ride home, they arrived in Portland, Ore., with little time before the birth of their first child. Paul was born on Thanksgiving Day, November 1928. A second son, Arthur, was born 20 months later, in July 1930.

Martin Simon accepted a pastorate in Eugene, Ore., a big lumber community where workers frequently moved around from mill to mill.

That was when the idea of beginning a children's periodical started and the Simons set to work writing, publishing and circulating a weekly called The Children's Hour.

Circulation grew quickly as more and more parents and pastors began subscribing. The Children's Hour expanded to 36 pages and was renamed My Child.

Soon, readers were requesting a periodical relating to Christian parenting and Martin Simon began The Christian Parent, which also grew quickly.

"Neither of us really knew the first thing about publishing when we started," she remembered.

But soon they were buying a Linotype and converting their garage into a print shop to accommodate their growing business. It was during this time both sons became familiar with publishing, working with their parents in the family business.

In order to be centrally located for mailing, the Simons boxed up their personal belongings and business machinery and moved to Highland, Ill.

Ruth Simon tells of how, at an early age, it became evident that Paul was destined for a political life — a life his father may have chosen had he not decided to become a minister.

"He was always reading history books and following politics in the newspapers. Once he decided to listen to a political broadcast instead of eating dinner," she recalled.

Paul Simon became the youngest publisher of a newspaper in Illinois when he was loaned the money to buy and run the Troy Tribune.

Eventually he ran for state representative and held various elected positions, including lieutenant governor, U.S. House Representative and U.S. Senator.

Arthur Simon followed his father's footsteps and entered the Lutheran ministry, authored several books and headed the Washington, D.C.-based organization B.R.E.A.D., whose purpose is to fight world hunger.

He is currently affiliated with the Christian Children's Fund. Martin Simon subsequently co-authored "Little Visits with God" in 1957 with Allan Hart Jahsmann. It was a very successful book of children's devotionals. Concordia Publishing House then requested them to write another book and "More Little Visits with God" was completed in 1961.

With both sons following their own careers, the magazines were sold. The Simons lived in Wheaton, Ill., for a while and then moved to Brussels and Okawville, Ill., where Martin continued his work with his ministry and writing until his death in 1969.

With her 85th birthday approaching, Ruth Simon has no plans to slow down. She is still very active at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, involved with several organizations, teaching Bible classes and visiting homebound and the elderly.

"She is always upbeat and an inspiration," said the Rev. Dennis A. Kastens, pastor at Good Shepherd. "She has had her ups and downs and her bouts with poor health. But she picks up from where she left and goes on."

"It's a 'can do' attitude. And you see the same pattern with her sons, who continue to influence our nation and our world."

Her advice to young mothers about parenting children sensitive to helping others is straightforward.

"Teach them love and respect for God and have them attend church and Sunday School regularly. "You have to work with them, spend time with them and teach them respect for people. The world could be so much better but it has to start at home."

Ruth Simon at her Collinsville home.

Circuit clerk candidate denies allegations of embezzlement

Max Shaffer, a Democratic primary candidate for Madison County circuit clerk, has been dogged by allegations that he embezzled about $51,000 from his stepfather.

Associate Circuit Judge Lola Maddox ruled in 1989 that Shaffer, of Glen Carbon, embezzled the money when he had fiduciary responsibility for his stepfather, Leroy J. Smith.

Shaffer contended Wednesday that there was nothing illegal about the transactions and claimed that enemies within the county Democratic Party were responsible for dredging up old business that is unrelated to the campaign. Shaffer said he did not believe any of his primary opponents were responsible for the publicity.

"It wasn't a coverup," Shaffer said. "It wasn't as if I took this money without his blessing."

Shaffer said he and his stepfather were close friends, and Smith willingly signed over the money. Smith, 75, died in October 1988.

Shaffer, one of four circuit clerk candidates seeking the Democratic nomination March 17, gained access to Smith's checking account before he died. The money went to his former General Service and Contracting business in Glen Carbon, he said.

"He had put the money up so I could have working capital on this job I was working," Shaffer said. "I thought a lot of him; he thought a lot of me."

Max Shaffer

Maddox ruled that Shaffer had no legal right to the money except to pay for Smith's expenses.

According to court records, Shaffer must put the more than $51,000 back into his stepfather's estate. Nothing had been repaid as of Wednesday.

Shaffer said he planned on using money he won in a lawsuit over a labor contract in the village of Filmore to pay the money back, but the case was tied up in court for six years and attorney fees and interest took most of the settlement.

"I've got a judgment against me. I won't argue with that," he said of the Maddox ruling.

Smith's brother, Elmer Smith of Christopher, said getting the money out of Shaffer will be difficult. "You can't get blood out of a turnip," he said.

Elmer Smith said Shaffer took the money, leaving an outstanding $5,000 debt at the nursing home where Leroy Smith stayed until he died. Elmer Smith said his brother would never have consented to loaning Shaffer money.

"My brother didn't care too much for him because he said he was a moocher," Smith said. "Any money he borrowed, he never paid back."

Elmer Smith, an administrator of Leroy Smith's estate, said the estate's attorney turned the case over to Madison County State's Attorney William Haine for possible prosecution in 1989.

Haine confirmed Wednesday the case was referred to his office, but he said no criminal investigation will take place until the case is closed in probate court. He declined to comment further.

Shaffer said the money dispute is family business. Elmer Smith was upset that Leroy Smith "adopted" Shaffer as his son, Shaffer said.

"I have never covered up the fact that I owe the estate this money," Shaffer said. "I didn't do anything wrong to start with."

Others seeking the Democratic circuit clerk nomination are Matt Melucci of Collinsville, Don Brick of Granite City and Fred Perry of Glen Carbon.

Filled mugs will be available starting Tuesday at both Granite City McDonald's restaurants for $1.59. The refill price will be 49 cents. For each mug sold, 25 cents will go to the CCHS athletic program.

TV primary discussion set

Implications of the March 17 Illinois primary election will be analyzed on the "Ryan Report," hosted by Illinois Secretary of State George H. Ryan.

The program, which will air on Illinois cable channels throughout March, will feature former state senator and long-time Republican strategist Don Totten and Democratic consultant James Strong.

It appears that the Illinois primary will be even more important than usual in the nominating process this year," Ryan said.

"Anyone interested in the race for the White House should be especially interested in this month's program."

Ryan and his guests will discuss the national and Illinois strategies of the candidates for president. They also will examine some local races.

The "Ryan Report" is produced by MetroVision of Palm Park in cooperation with Illinois Cable Television Association.

Sims case may become TV movie

A television movie based on a best-selling book about Paula Sims may be filmed in this area.

Laurel Films of New York City has begun preproduction work on a movie based on "Precious Victims," written by former prosecutor Don Weber and newspaper reporter Charles Bosworth Jr.

Sims is serving a life sentence for the murder of her infant daughter in 1989.

Deborah Dalton, a screenwriter working on the project, toured the Alton area last week.

She described the story as fascinating and said it was helpful to meet the people and see the locales described in the book. "It makes it come alive for me."

Dalton said the project is in the early stages of development and there is about a 50 percent chance a movie would result for CBS.

"I think it should be shot here," she said. "At this point, I think that's their intention."

Sims was sentenced to life in prison after her 1990 conviction for first-degree murder of a 6-week-old Heather. Weber prosecuted Sims, who is appealing her conviction.

Sims told police a masked gunman abducted Heather from the family's home in Alton April 29, 1989. The infant's remains were found a few days later in a trash can near West Alton, Mo. A pathologist concluded she had been suffocated.

Sims also blamed a masked gunman for the abduction of her first daughter, Lorelei, from the family's home near Brighton in June 1986. A child's remains were found near the home a week later.

Sims entered Alford pleas to charges of concealing a homicide death and obstructing justice in the earlier case. In an Alford plea, a defendant does not admit guilt but concedes there is sufficient evidence for conviction.

Task force to be organized for new anti-DUI county program

Piasa Health Care has received funding from the Illinois Department of Transportation through a subcontract with the Madison County Board for a DUI (driving under the influence of alcohol) Countermeasure Program.

Piasa is a non-profit health care agency specializing in the prevention and treatment of alcohol abuse and other drug abuse. It has offices in Collinsville, Granite City, Glen Carbon and Alton.

Funds from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration will finance development of a Local Alcohol Program.

The program focuses on solutions designed to create awareness and to reduce the incidence of drinking and driving and, therefore, alcohol-related motor vehicle crashes and attendant injuries and deaths.

Piasa will train those who serve alcohol, will educate youths and adults, and will assist local businesses in developing safety programs and media campaigns.

The Madison County Board will organize the program and develop a task force to coordinate activities.

A Countywide DUI Task Force will seek to build upon existing community efforts to address alcohol and substance abuse.

The task force will include members representing the concerns of law enforcement, adjudication, youths, religion, community/civic groups, prevention providers, businesses, school districts, local government, media and the liquor industry.

The county has also received funds for the Madison County Sheriff's department to enhance enforcement and prosecution.

The goal of this project is to reduce the number of fatalities, personal injuries and property damage caused by alcohol-related accidents that occur from 4 p.m. to 6 a.m.

Plans include using specialized, highly visible DUI patrol units and increasing enforcement of alcohol-related laws.

The prosecution/adjudication component will be implemented through the Madison County State's Attorney's Office to reduce the backlog of DUI cases and enhance prosecution efforts.

Piasa Health Care will assume responsibility for public information, education and prevention.

THE VOICE BOX: Do you think American workers are lazy?

By John Swistak Jr., T.L. Witt and Linda Schaefer

Barbara Brockman, Granite City
"Yes, a lot of the younger people are. They expect to get something without working hard for it."

Scott Senti, Granite City
"Some, like the big shot executives in corporations. They cut the little man's wages so they can make more money."

Doug Brown, Collinsville
"No, I don't think they are. I think they are too set in their ways as far as their start and stop times. They pay too much attention to the clock."

Peggy Irvin, Collinsville
"In general, I think they are. I think they expect too much."

Tom Johnson, Lebanon
"No. I think that for most people there is a lack of education and that means manual labor jobs for a lot of people. Workers aren't lazy, they just can't get motivated in manual labor jobs."

Larry Becar, Swansea
"I think that most Americans are hard workers. People have to work hard because they are not getting the education that they need to get better jobs."

Backlog of debts adds up to $557 million

SPRINGFIELD — Despite borrowing big bucks, the state has a mounting backlog of bills as the recession hammers away.

"Revenues are still dead in the water," state Comptroller Dawn Netsch said.

The bills Feb. 29 soared to $597 million, about $85 million higher than a month earlier, despite the February payout of $500 million borrowed under a new Medicaid rollout plan, Netsch said.

The loan did give some relief to hospitals and nursing homes, Netsch noted. "But it didn't affect the general revenue fund imbalance."

As of Tuesday, the backlog of overdue bills was $557 million, with school districts owed the biggest chunk.

"Too little cash in the state general revenue fund has forced Netsch to hold up $150 million in categorical grant payments that go through the State Board of Education to local districts. Categoricals include reimbursement for such items as transportation and special education."

Alton School District Treasurer Jim Baiter said the district was owed about $225,000 in categorical bills.

He said most of that, about $70,000, is for transportation reimbursement. Because the district's own transportation fund is empty, the district will have to borrow from its working cash fund to cover the cost for last month, Baiter said.

Aside from school grants, the rest of the backlog included $101 million more in overdue Medicaid payments, $43.7 million in overdue payments owed cities and counties as their share of the state income tax, $56 million owed community colleges, $37 million in student assistance funds, $61 million owed commercial vendors and the rest in other categories.

The pile of bills is not likely to be reduced until at least next month, Netsch warned, since February and March are slow revenue months.

The month of April, when income tax returns are due, is traditionally the best month for cash flow, so some headway can be expected then, Netsch said.

However, the general tax revenue trend continues downward, she said.

Sales taxes collected for February plunged 15.4 percent, or $57 million, falling to $253 million compared with $310 million for the same month a year earlier, Netsch reported. Income tax revenues were up only slightly in February.

Netsch said her office was projecting revenue at least $100 million less for the fiscal year ending June 30 than that predicted by the governor's Bureau of the Budget.

Lab performs 1,000th catheterization

Since its beginning in 1989, the Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory at St. Elizabeth Medical Center has continued to provide up-to-date procedures, and this January, cath lab personnel performed their 1,000th catheterization.

"It was the patient's (who received the 1,000th cath) second procedure," said Marianne Hicks, RN. "He said the friendliness of our staff made the procedure easier."

Cardiac catheterizations reveal crucial information about a patient's heart.

A fine, long catheter, a tube for evacuating or injecting fluids, is passed through the lumen of a blood vessel into the heart's chambers. The procedure is taped on film.

Cath lab personnel use the film to detect the location of defects in the walls and valves of the heart, the location and degree of narrowing of coronary arteries, and the different pressures in heart chambers.

Two cardiologists, Drs. Randy Johnson and Michael Schiff, perform catheterizations on a rotational basis. Both are experienced and board-certified. A qualified, trained staff of critical-care nurses and radiology technologists assists the doctors in all tests.

Lab personnel include: Walter Madej, RT; Shakey Saligram, RT; Hicks; Becky Andria, RN; Beverly Kelahan, RN; and Lori Burns, RN.

The six members of the cath lab perform procedures Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week. Each completed hands-on training at St. Louis University Hospital.

"We were trained on how to perform procedures and how to calibrate and use the equipment our medical center purchased," Madej said.

"The equipment we have now is basically the same as when we started, but we now have smaller catheters, which means a smaller hole and less bleeding for the patient."

George Garrigus, director of Radiology, said, "This cath lab staff is the best example of dedicated, professional associates I have had the pleasure of working with at SESMC. Their expertise, in combination with the skills of Drs. Johnson and Schiff, have greatly enhanced services to our community."

OH MY ACHING CORNS!

A phrase so commonly used by those suffering needlessly from painful corns. Although trimming them affords temporary relief, within 1-2 months regrowth of the corn occurs along with the pain and discomfort. The recurrence is due to the underlying calcium deposit causing excessive pressure where the skin responds by building up that hard corn tissue. In almost all instances the corn can be permanently removed by an in-office procedure requiring little or no time off of work. There is no need to suffer any longer - consult the physicians and surgeons at THE FOOT HEALTH CENTERS.

Sutureless (No Stitch) Cataract Surgery

Until now, all cataract surgery required a large incision into the eye to remove the cataract and implant a lens. Eight or more stitches were required to close the wound.

Recently, however, a new soft implant has been developed that can fit through a 4mm (about 1/8 inch) incision.

A new surgical technique now allows this surgery to be done without sutures. The result is a rapid recovery of vision and an immediate return to normal activities.

Moses Harrison is winning court campaign for contributions

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Illinois Supreme Court candidate Moses Harrison is expected to outstep his Democratic primary opponents after digging deep into his own pockets.

In finance reports filed this week with the State Board of Elections, Harrison reported leading $40,000 of his own money to his campaign.

"I'm my biggest contributor. I don't think I'll ever see that money again," the 5th Appeals Court justice said.

Harrison said he expected to spend between $80,000 and $100,000 on the primary election campaign, with most of it going to pay for television ads on St. Louis and Southern Illinois stations.

"It's a major cost but I felt it was the only way to get my message out over 37 counties. I can't go door to door," he said.

In the disclosure report from Jan. 1 through Feb. 16, his committee reported spending $64,276, of which $22,200 was paid to Miller Communications of Alton for "consulting, TV and newspaper."

Most of Harrison's contributions are from attorneys and former law clients, he said. Outside his own donation, the biggest individual contribution was $2,500 from Dr. W.C. Scribner of Belleville.

Fellow 5th Appellate Court Justice Charles Chapman reported contributions of $26,925 and spending of $5,092 in the same period.

Chapman said he expected to spend "about $40,000" before the March 17 primary election. He said he hoped to have "a little TV but not like Moses. He's got a lot of TV and that's expensive."

Chapman reported loans from himself totaling $12,894.

Attorneys, including several in Chicago, have made large contributions to Chapman's campaign. Contributions of $1,000 each were made by nine prominent Chicago lawyers, including personal injury attorney superstars Leonard Ring and Philip Corboy.

Chapman said the Chicago contributions came from a reception held by a longtime friend, Chicago lawyer Eugene Pavalon, who serves with Chapman on an Illinois Supreme Court study committee.

Two Springfield personal injury attorneys also popped for $1,000 each for Chapman's campaign.

Four Madison County lawyers, Richard Shalkewitz, David Wahl and Samuel Mormino, all of Alton, and David Hess of Glen Carbon, also kicked in $1,000 each to Chapman's campaign.

Shalkewitz and his wife also contributed $400 to Harrison's campaign. And Wahl and his wife contributed $300 to Harrison's campaign.

The third candidate in the Democratic primary for the Supreme Court is the 5th District, retired Circuit Judge Carl Becker of Red Bud, trailed far behind in campaign funds.

The Republican contest in the Supreme Court seat is apparently a low-budget affair.

Former Madison County State's Attorney Don Weber reported revenues of $3,040 and spending $1,048. His two biggest contributors were Alton lawyers Robert Carter and James Williamson, at $1,000 each.

Weber's opponent, Mount Carmel attorney John Rhine has not filed any campaign finance reports.

New time, format for exercise show

By Randy Vaughn
Staff writer

A change in format of the "Hard Body Show" will follow a change in the time slot on Centennial Cable Channel 10, Hard Body Gym owner and show host Dan McGuire said.

The time slot for the cable show will be moved beginning March 9 from Saturday mornings at 9:30 to Monday evenings at 6:30.

The new format will add variety to the current format and target area residents who are interested in living a healthy lifestyle, not just body builders or gym members, he said.

"We will teach an individual how to keep fit while training within his or her own home," McGuire said, adding that this will include, for example, how to train at home with a simple broomstick.

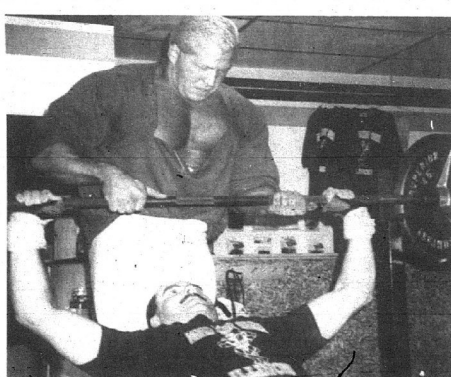

McGuire and his wife, Joanne, will host the show. Joanne will host the March 16 show, and focus on women's interests, like firming up the hips and thighs.

The show will also include topics of interest to all ages, from teenagers to senior citizens, McGuire said, adding that individual shows will focus on various age groups and show how to train safely and effectively.

The show will often be taken on location in the community, he said.

"We will visit area supermarkets to show people how to shop and eat nutritiously," he said.

"We'll visit the Granite City Tactical Team to show how they train to keep fit for their job. And we will include a number of

"Some ordered heart-shaped mazes with love messages inside for Valentine's Day," he said.

"I've also made activity sheets for parties or special events. If 10 little kids came to Cindy's birthday party, for example, you could have 10 different mazes that say 'Happy birthday, Cindy' in them, and the kids could't copy off of each other because all the mazes are different."

Knoderer displayed a maze shaped like the state of Illinois where the starting point was Granite City, with Chicago as the finishing point.

"The way I create these mazes, I can guarantee that, no matter where you start on my mazes, and no matter where you finish, there will only be exactly one solution between those two points."

The average maze is created from beginning to end because the author starts with the answer, he said. The mazes are usually put near the beginning, with fewer at the end where one would run out of space, Knoderer said.

"My program forces the computer to simultaneously create the maze at the beginning and end, bringing the two together in the middle," he said.

The maze can be turned into any shape because a drawing is placed on a scanner which makes an image of the picture and places it in the computer program, Knoderer said.

A customer can also decide on the difficulty of each maze—easy, medium or hard, he said. The most difficult maze would have 208 horizontal walls and 159 vertical walls, with the easiest being 2-by-2.

Most mazes are 8.5-by-11 or 11-by-17 inches, he said, but some are in bookmark, poster or giant sizes. He has created one that is 4-feet-by-8-feet.

"I can make them as big or small as one would want," he said. "I can make any dimensions of any of your walls or ask me to make the maze billboard-size."

Knoderer began his fascination with computers in high school when his parents bought him a computer.

"My father worked at a photography lab, and the University of Indiana Computer Center was next door. I would go to work with him and escape into the computer."

The Indiana native now operates his own business out of his home at 2118A Delmar Ave. in Granite City as a computer programmer, systems analyst, consultant and educator.

He said the cost of each maze ranges from $3 to $12, but that the mazes are only a "fun" or "hobby" segment of his mostly serious business.

"There are next to no limitations on the creativity of these mazes," Knoderer said. "Customers should use their creative imaginations and call me at 334-2273."

Let the "maze man" amaze you, he said.

And he will be doing just that at a fundraiser today (Sunday) for the Imagination radio station; he will create individualized mazes from 1 to 4 p.m. in the main gymnasium at Belleville Area College, 2500 Carnegie Road, Belleville.

The industrial training program is currently housed at the old Commonwealth Steel facility on State Street in Granite City. The program runs apprenticeships in a variety of fields, including electricians, pipefitters, machinists and millwrights. Among the major industries with apprenticeship programs at the center are Granite City Steel, Cerro Copper of Sauget and Monsanto.

One of the prohibiting factors in having industrial training centers, Cipfi said, is the cost of equipment and technology. He said the grants include $700,000 for equipment.

BAC's Granite City campus is located at 4950 Maryville Road.

Because state senate districts are based on representative districts, voters in McPike's district also vote in the senate district now represented by Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville, and voters in Flinn and Young's districts are in the senate district now represented by Sen. Ken Hall, D-East St. Louis. Bowles and Hall are both unopposed in both the primary and general elections.

In Granite City, 11 of the 36 precincts are split between two representatives and nine of those are also split between two state senators. McPike has 11 full precincts and parts of eight others. Flinn has 10 full precincts and parts of 11 others. Young has one precinct and part of four others.

Granite City Precinct 8, divided between McPike's 11th and Flinn's 113th and Young's 114th districts, has the distinction of being the only precinct in Madison County to have three state representatives.

"With three representatives and two senators, I ought to have a lot of pull in Springfield, I guess," said Dan Partney, Democratic committeeman for Granite City 8. "Really, it's a screwed up mess and the really sad thing is that it will stay this way for at least 10 years."

The Venice townip, which includes Venice, Madison and Eagle Park, Young has seven precincts, Flinn has one precinct and they split the other two. All of Venice Township is in Hall's senate district.

In Numeok Township, which includes Pontoon Beach, Flinn has five precincts, McPike has four precincts and they split the other three. Pontoon Beach has four precincts, Hall has five precincts and they split three precincts.

A small part of Pontoon Beach in Collinsville Township is in a district now represented by Rep. Jay Hoffman, D-Collinsville. He is facing Ellen Stimpes of Edwardsville in the March Democratic Primary.

All of Chouteau Township is in McPike and Vadalabene's districts.

Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles said she had the sample ballot published early this year to give voters a chance to sit down and figure their districts. The sample ballot was published in Thursday's Press-Record-Tribune.

"If the person takes out his or her voter registration card and follows the instructions on the front of the sample ballot, they ought to be able to figure it out," she said. "I wanted to give people time to really study the ballot."

"I'm sure there is still going to be some confusion at the polls and, if people haven't taken time to look at the sample ballot, they may be surprised at some of the names on their ballot."

Bowles said the workers in her office deserve "gobs and gobs of praise" for their and being removed from the state financial watch list in early February, Kostenski said.

The budget will be squeezed by about $40,000 by new state cuts totaling 1.8 percent. Eighty percent of the district's finances comes from state aid, he said.

"We've maintained sound fiscal practices, but the new state cuts are a real shock on the state financial watch list next year," Kostenski said.

"We've cut the fat from the budget and are now into the solid meat and are about to be down to the bone."

A majority of the legislators in Springfield appear to have a hardened attitude toward education, Kostenski said, adding that local legislators have been more than helpful but can't overcome the majority will.

"Education should be in the top two or three of priorities to the state Legislators, but it hasn't been," he said.

adopted by 2,000 stations worldwide.

KMOX was the first CBS-owned radio or television station to offer editorial or to endorse a candidate. It also introduced the Conelrad severe weather warning system, which was later adopted by the U.S. Weather Bureau.

The station also developed a reputation for outstanding on-air talent, especially in the field of sports. Jack Buck, Bob Costas and Dan Dierdorf are current examples of local sports personalities who developed national reputations.

Laurence A. Tisch, chairman of CBS Inc., said, "Bob (Hyland) exemplified the finest qualities of broadcasting and community service, and few will ever match his level of involvement and commitment to the CBS legend."

Concerning Mr. Hyland's com-

7-day-a-week efforts over the last two months to get out the new registration cards and sample ballots. She said the ballots are set up so the election judges will be able read the code on the registration card and hand out the right ballot.

"I'm satisfied we have made every effort to avoid confusion on election day," she said. "It's not going to be easy, but it's not going to be a disaster."

"I'm not optimistic in the short term that the state is going to make changes to aid the economy in these times in Madison."

But the Madison staff has responded with great effort in the face of budget cutbacks, Kostenski said.

"We've been able to provide new programs for kids because a number of staff members have written grant proposals to finance student programs," he said.

"If the School Board had to deal with economies all the time, there would be eight (superintendent and seven board members) very depressed people," Bowles said. "But we still offer a very good education to the children in the community, and that's the bottom line."

There is a fine line between retaining educational respect, ability and overcoming budget woes," he said. "But we still offer a very good education to the children in the community, and that's the bottom line."

community involvement, August A. Busch III, president of Anheuser-Busch Cos. Inc., said at the 1988 Man of the Year ceremony.

"St. Louis is far richer because of the purpose, dedication and commitment of Robert Hyland. He is not only the creator of the 'Voice of St. Louis' but is an integral part of the community's body and soul."

Mr. Hyland was president of the St. Louis Zoological Park Commission for nearly 12 years, during which many innovations, including the Jungle of the Apes and the Living World programs, were completed or introduced.

He was a member of Civic Progress, chairman of the Missouri-St. Louis Metropolitan Airport Authority, board chairman of Lindenwood College, former chairman of Regional Medical Center and a founding member of the Jefferson College, former Jefferson National Expansion Memorial Association. Odds makers begin Oscar countdown

By Harry Hamm
Correspondent

For the first time, a St. Louisan has been nominated as the producer of a film named for Best Picture by the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences.

"The Silence of the Lambs," produced by former Kirkwood and Chesterfield resident Eddie Saxon, is one of the five films nominated this year.

Saxon, the son of former St. Louis psychologist Leonard Saxon, is now based in New York City. He is a longtime collaborator with "The Silence of the Lambs" director Jonathan Demme. Saxon also produced Demme's films "Something Wild" and "Married to the Mob."

Las Vegas odds makers have installed "The Silence of the Lambs" as a 3-to-1 favorite to win. "The Prince of Tides" and "Bugsy" are noted as even-money choices. Disney's "Beauty and the Beast" has been placed as a 5-to-1 shot, while Oliver Stone's "JFK" is called a long shot at 6-to-1.

The biggest flap over this year's Oscar nominations revolves around the lack of a nomination in the Best Director category for Barbra Streisand for her film, "The Prince of Tides," even though the film was nominated for Best Picture and received seven nominations overall.

Had Streisand been nominated as Best Director, she would have only been the second woman to be so honored. The only woman to ever be nominated for Best Director in the Academy's 64-year history was Lina Wertmüller, who was nominated in 1976 for the film, "Seven Beauties."

The director's branch of the Academy, which nominates Best Director candidates, consists of 24 men and only 12 women.

The winter holiday period of 1991 proved the best time to release a film if you wanted to garner an Academy Award nomination. Eleven of the nominated films were released at either Thanksgiving or Christmas. Six were released in the summer, four in the fall and one in the winter, between January and April.

Ten of the films nominated were dramas, four were action pictures, three were comedies, three were musicals, two were thrillers and one was a fantasy.

Las Vegas odds makers think Oscar will add a first to its voting history in the categories of Best Actress and Best Supporting Actress. The mother-daughter team of Laura Dern and Diane Ladd have been nominated for Best Actress and Supporting Actress, respectively, for their work in the film "Raging Bull."

They have been installed as favorites to win in their categories, which would mark the first win for a mother-daughter team in the same year, and from the same film.

Nick Nolte for "The Prince of Tides" and Anthony Hopkins for "The Silence of the Lambs" have been noted as even-money favorites to win in the Best Actor category.

The Oscar telecast will be carried live at 8 p.m., St. Louis time, March 30 on KTVI-TV (Channel 2).

Clarice Starling (Jodie Foster) and Dr. Hannibal Lecter (Anthony Hopkins) in "The Silence of the Lambs," the Oscar favorite this year.

Linden King

Singing country music is second nature to Linden King, born in Memphis, Tenn. King has been singing since he started his first band at age 12. He was raised by military parents, with his father being an accomplished musician himself.

The kid from Memphis grew up to be a 6-foot, 4-inch, 235-pound outside linebacker for the NFL for 13 years from 1977-1990, spending nine years with the San Diego Chargers and four years with the Los Angeles Raiders.

During the years with the NFL King spent his off-time writing and performing his music. After retiring from the NFL and moving to St. Louis, in the late 1990, King has committed himself to a full-time career as a musician. King has been playing the St. Louis club circuit since May of 1991.

King is in the process of negotiating a record contract in Nashville, Tenn. King will be the opening act for Hal Ketchum at Stages Night Club in Madison on March 24.

Bruce Bradley returns to KMOX afternoon radio program

By Ian MacBryde
Correspondent

The warm tones of Bruce Bradley are once again a part of the afternoon format at KMOX-AM (1120), though there is a program change of some significance. Bradley, as you will recall, left the station abruptly in mid-January.

At the time he left, Bradley was on the air from 2 to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, sharing the first two hours of his shift with Ann Keefe. He returned March 2 and will be on the air from 3 to 6 p.m., according to Program Director John Angelides. He and Keefe will not work together "by mutual consent," Angelides said. Keefe, incidentally, is on vacation at this writing.

If you are surprised that Bradley could walk out on a high-profile, on-the-air job without notice and walk back in six weeks later, apparently without penalty, join the club. Angelides could not immediately think of a precedent when he was asked about it, but he did point out it was the late Bob Hyland, CBS vice president and general manager of the station, who made the decision to hire Bradley. Bradley's "ratings are good, and he's very well-liked by the audience," he Angelides said. Bradley cited "personal problems dealing with his neighbors" as the reason for his absence.

As has been pointed out in this space before — perhaps unnecessarily, but with a certain amount of sympathy — personalities on KMOX, which has a talk-radio format, often get involved on the air in controversial topics and occasionally offer personal opinions on such matters. That frequently opens them up for all kinds of reactions from listeners. Sometimes the performers find it tough to deal with the comments.

"Ratings" is a word with a very special meaning to broadcasters. Careers in both radio and television have been made — or broken — by those mysterious, and by almost any account, imperfect numbers which are cranked out by various organizations as measures of the size of a broadcast audience.

Not only do ratings affect careers, they also affect profoundly the broadcast content which we as listeners and viewers have available. Programs which do not attract a significant audience generally do not attract advertising income, and, therefore, frequently do not endure on the air.

So how accurate are the ratings? Well, they may not be as accurate as broadcasters would like, but they are the best measure we've got. And they're probably a lot more accurate than the first radio ratings which were measured in this market in the fall of 1966.

Those ratings were based on a three-week survey. Radio is now surveyed 48 out of the 52 weeks of the year, with four 12-week surveys. Television ratings, by the way, also began on a much more frequent basis. For years, TV was "rated" only during February, May, July and November. Then came additional surveys in January and October, and finally, the overnight ratings based in the biggest markets which means that television stations are always under the ratings gun. That makes for tough times for program and news directors.

Interestingly, though, television advertisers still seem to rely mostly on the traditional February, May and November ratings which accounts for all those ridiculous, and often sleazy non-news series which news departments inflict on us during those months.

Those early radio ratings of more than 25 years ago show some similarities to today's numbers — but a lot more differences.

For instance, KMOX, always the leader in total audience these days, came in second in that first rating (although first among adults). The overall leader was KKOK-AM (630), a Top 40 station then, which commanded an incredible 77.8 percent share of the teenage market — according to Arbitron. KKOK had a 25.2 rating, KMOX had 20.2, and the falloff after that was remarkable. Third place went to WRTH-AM (then 590, now 1430) with a 9.2.

One major difference between the two eras: The top five stations accounted for 72 percent of all listening, compared with 46 percent today.

Incidentally, KMOX went to the top of the ratings in the next book, fell to second place in the fall of 1967 and has been No. 1 in total audience ever since.

KMOX also might be the only station which has been consistent through those years with the same owner (CBS), call letters, format (talk) and place on the dial.

Among the changes: WRTH went from 590 AM to 1430 AM, where it replaced WIL which became FM only (92).

The AM 590 frequency was passed along from WRTH to WKLL to WCEO to KEZZ — all in the past 3½ years.

The 103 point on the FM dial has seen various incarnations: KMOX (FM), KHTR, and the incumbent, KLOU.

And 106 FM has housed WGN, KWK, and now WKBO. Throughout all that change there has been some growth and, apparently, the development of more discerning tastes — or at least more station-hopping. In that first rating in 1966 only 21 stations had audiences large enough to be measured by the survey. In the most recent rating period, which ended in December, 23 stations had "reportable" listening audiences.

Warriors win regional

20th win keyed by defense, free throws

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

It wasn't beautiful. But as they say, "Offense sells tickets and defense wins championships." The Warriors will be selling tickets Monday morning because defense won a championship Friday night. Granite City (20-7) forced the Jerseyville Panthers into 28 turnovers and held them under 40 percent from the field and won 60-54 to win a regional championship at Memorial Gym.

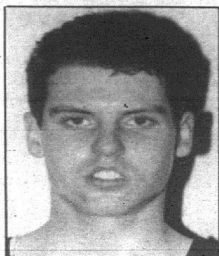

The Warriors (20-7) made 14 of 16 free throws in the fourth quarter while Jerseyville turned cold and saw its season end at 24-3. The Warriors won their eighth straight game and will play the host Collinsville Kahoks (20-7) after a 79-63 win over Edwardsville on Friday) on Wednesday in the Collinsville Sectional semifinals at 7:30 p.m.

It's Granite City's first 20-win season and regional championship since 1986.

"Once you get to this point in the season, defense is what's going to help you advance," said Warriors coach Bill Ohlendorf, who won his first regional since returning to the coaching ranks three years ago. "We did a great job on (Cory) Breden (15 points) and OK against (Jeff) Manns (eight points). Jerseyville has a very nice club and they had a tremendous season."

"It was an ugly game," said Jerseyville coach Jim Monge. "We always say 'play hard and play smart.' Well, we played hard tonight, but not too smart."

The Panthers had their chances. The Warriors weren't that much sharper, and Jerseyville

Jeff Smith
... 16 points, 9 rebounds

led 43-38 early in the fourth quarter on a basket by Ben Kallal after the Warriors' Jeff Smith and Leroy Samuels collided going for a rebound.

But Granite City responded with a 15-2 run. Nine of the points came on free throws, and two free throws by Brian Smith made it 50-40 with 2:19 left. The Panthers never got closer than six the rest of the way.

"They had the physicality on us in the end," said Monge. "I thought we did a decent job on the Smiths and contained (Drake) Marshall pretty well. But Samuels had an excellent game for them."

Samuels, a 6-6 sophomore, had 14 points. Marshall, who had averaged 25 points in his last seven games, was held to 15. Jeff Smith led the Warriors with 16 points and nine rebounds while Brian Smith had 10.

"They made Drake put the ball on the floor a long way from the basket, and that's not his best game," said Ohlendorf. "But our experience and competitive level won out in the end."

T.J. VonHoven led the Panthers with 16 points and Breden added 15. But no one else was in double figures and the turnovers were too much to overcome.

Neither team was thrilled with the officiating as many seemingly obvious fouls went uncalled on both sides. The point spread was never more than four until the Warriors made their run in the fourth quarter. Jeff Smith finished it off with a dunk as the Warriors beat the press with 15 seconds left.

Tickets for Wednesday's 7:30 p.m. game in Collinsville against the Kahoks go on sale at 7:45 a.m. Monday at the GCHS main office.

"We wanted to make sure they didn't get many three-pointers against us," said Jeff Smith. "Our defense won it for us tonight. But we're going to have to get in our offense a lot more Wednesday."

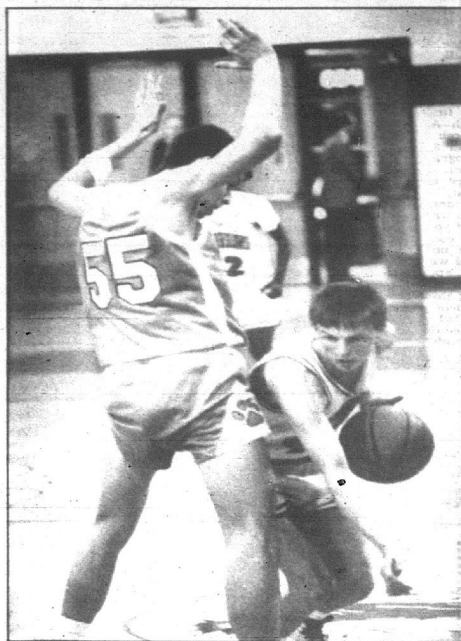

The Panthers were only 3 of 17 from three-point range. They had been seeded sixth in the sectional despite their record and wanted to prove some coaches wrong.

"The kids read the papers and they wonder why we get seeded that low," said Monge. "But we set our sights on certain things this year and we reached many of our goals."

"We were just out of sync tonight. If we only make 14 turnovers, there's 14 shots they don't get and maybe 14 more that we get at our end. The kids played their hearts out."

So did the Warriors. It looked a bit ragged at times, but hard defense was a big reason.

"You don't care how you advance at this time of year," said Ohlendorf. "You just want to advance. We were able to settle down for one good stretch there in the fourth quarter and that's what did it for us."

Drake Marshall tries to sneak around 6-5 Jerseyville center T.J. VonHoven.

Emotional Kahoks knock off Tigers

By Jim Woodcock
Staff writer

Chris Reynolds opened Friday's regional title game in Collinsville with a three-basket spree, closed it with a slam dunk and finished with a career-high 32 points. Strong stuff.

But to look at the fire in the Kahoks and their coach, Bob Bone, it appears the season team wanted more against the visiting Edwardsville Tigers. Emotion was certainly a factor in the second-seeded Kahoks' 79-63 win over the seventh-seeded Tigers, who became their sixth consecutive victim in a regional title game.

The reason: Memories of the Kahoks' win earlier in the season against the host Tigers, who spread the game out in delay-game fashion before finally dropping the contest 43-38. On Friday the Kahoks (20-7) didn't give the Tigers (15-12) a chance to play the same game, seeking Edwardsville 22-4 in the first quarter, and for that Bone couldn't have been happier.

"If that's their best way to play, to hold the ball and stall, then that's what they need to do," Bone said. "They can't stall it an offense if they want. It's not an offense. It's a stall."

"We need a shot clock in high school basketball if that's going to occur. You don't run an offense standing out at half-court."

The Tigers made a slight challenge in the second half, but it wasn't enough to deny the Kahoks a semifinal berth in the Collinsville Sectional on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. against Granite City.

The Kahoks would do well to duplicate the torrid pace they set Friday against the Tigers. After forcing several early turnovers against the Tigers' four-corner offense, Reynolds put the Kahoks up 6-0 early and a pair of 3-pointers by Richard Keene minutes later helped Collinsville race to an 18-2 advantage.

Steve Van Dyke closed the quarter with two baskets within 11 seconds, giving him a 4-for-4 run in the first quarter. Reynolds continued the onslaught after the quarter break with two baskets to give Collinsville a mammoth 26-4 advantage.

"We try to give coach what he wants," Tim Reynolds noted later.

Andrew Thompson, Edwardsville's 6-7 junior, became more active down low by scoring 15 of his team-high 19 in the second half, but the Tigers could never narrow the margin into single digits.

"We worked on spreading the floor and trying to run Thompson down on the post and getting him the ball," said Edwardsville coach Mike Waldo. "We turned it over a little bit early doing that. We did the things we practiced, we just didn't take care of the ball very well early."

"We came over here with the idea of not letting Keene shoot it and make another guy shoot jump shots. The only way to guard Keene is to double him, and so math tells you that there's only three of your guys left to guard four of theirs," Keene finished with 14 points, below his norm, but more often than not he was putting the ball into Chris Reynolds' hands. The result was a career-high 15 assists for Keene and a memorable night for Reynolds, who was 1 for 11 from the field when the Kahoks played in Edwardsville on Feb. 15.

"It was me and Richard," Reynolds said. "We've been teammates a long time and we're good for each other."

LCCC baseball team has distinct Granite City flavor

By Steve Porter
Staff writer

The sun should shine brighter on the Lewis and Clark Community College baseball team this season.

Clearly, second-year LCCC head coach Randy Martz envisions more rays of hope for the upcoming season. The Bucks will be enlightened. Leading the way will be five former Granite City High School players, including three who figure to see much of the pitching duty.

"We've got some good players and more experience than we had last year," said Martz, a former major league pitcher with the Cubs and White Sox. "You never know how things will turn out, but I'm optimistic. I think we can finish over .500 and contend in our section and conference."

LCCC, which opened the season Saturday with a doubleheader against Jefferson State in Birmingham, Ala., has put together an ambitious 60-game schedule, including an 11-game road swing at the outset. The Bucks will be headed up March 7-14 at Panama City, Fla., before coming back to Southwestern Illinois to take on archrival BAC in Belleville on March 19. The home debut is set for March 21 against Parkland of Champaign.

LCCC scrambled its way to a 22-22 mark last year in what Martz termed a "rebuilding season."

"We had to play a lot of freshmen last year and it's tough to win when you have to do that," said Martz. "This year, we'll have mainly a sophomore team, so it will be a much better situation."

Jason Isringhausen's return is cause enough to have the Bucks in a cheerful mood. The Southwestern High graduate, an outfielder/pitcher, figures to be one of the top JUCO players in these parts. Isringhausen was drafted as a pitcher last year by the New York Mets, but obviously hasn't signed yet. He might even consider finishing his college career at a four-year school. "He has had a lot of offers," Martz said. "Jason has a good arm, he hits with power and he knows how to play the game."

Lewis & Clark plays its first local game at BAC on March 19, then opens at home March 21 against Parkland College. Granite City players with the Bucks are Brian Harshany, Rich Schardan, Butch Senecyn, Dan Partney and Jay Robertson.

Ringhausen, who led the team in home runs and RBIs last year, will play center field and pitch. His pitching duties mostly were as a reliever last year. "He has a chance to go pro as a pitcher, so he will be a starting pitcher for this season," Martz said. "He has an 85-86 mph fastball."

Granite City High products Rich Schardan, Tom "Butch" Senecyn and Brian Harshany—all sophomores—also will do plenty of pitching, as will Civic Memorial's Dennis Ewing and freshman Andy Sauerwein of Jerseyville. Harshany and Schardan were key players on the Granite City Post 115 American Legion team which finished second in the state last summer. Schardan is a transfer from Lindenwood College and Senecyn is a transfer from Kaskaskia College.

"We've got more pitching than we had last year," Martz said. The only thing is that we don't have any left-handers."

Granite City's Dan Partney and Mike Buchanan will share the catching duties. Gillespie's Chris Hailstone (first base), Southwestern's Chad Wilder man (second base) and Todd Kunz (shortstop), plus Harshany or Jerseyville's Rich Snider (third base) will complete the infield. It's an experienced group.

"We're strong up the middle defensively because Kunz and Wilder man have worked together for two years," said Martz. "Todd can also flat-out hit (.340 last year)."

Isringhausen, Jersey's Scott Lamer, CM's Jonathan Denney and Matt Batchelor and Granite City's Jay Robertson as well as Schardan are outfield candidates, although Schardan is also a solid infielder.

Co-ed softball league being formed by park

The Granite City Park District is forming a co-ed softball league to be played on Thursday nights at Worthen Park.

The league will start April 30 and will play a 12-game schedule plus playoffs. The fees will be $200 plus $20 per person who lives outside the district.

Anyone interested should call Ray Hoffman at 877-3059.

State umpires clinic in Normal this month

The Illinois Amateur Softball Association will conduct an umpires clinic for all fast- and slow-pitch umpires March 27-28.

The clinic will be held at the Holiday Inn in Normal from 7:15-10:15 p.m. March 27 and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. March 28. The purpose is to make umpires more knowledgeable of all rules—old and new—teach new skills and provide an opportunity to improve mechanics and technique. The fee is $15 for one or both sessions.

Anyone wanting to register may do so at the beginning of either session. For more information, call Dan Highland or Cary Frey at the Normal Parks and Recreation Department, 309-454-9540.

GCSSA has several openings for summer

The deadline for softball teams who played last year in the Granite City Steel Softball Association is fast approaching.

Any team from last year that doesn't return a completed roster along with the entry fee by March 15 will forfeit its reserved place and new teams will enter on a first-come, first-served basis.

There are two openings in the Monday Night Men's league; two in the Monday Night Women's league; one opening in the Tuesday Night Men's league; two in the Tuesday Night Women's league; one in the Wednesday Night Men's league; three in the Wednesday Night Women's league; two in the Friday 35 & Over league; and four in the Friday Co-Ed league.

The entry fee for all leagues is $350. Teams interested should call Mike at 876-6371.

GCHS baseball alumni night slated for May 15

The Granite City School Board on Tuesday approved plans for an alumni baseball night to be held May 15.

Warrior baseball coach Bob Stegemeier is on the Baseball Alumni Night committee along with Babe Champion, Greg Patton, Roger Belshe and Dave Dombek. Varsity Field will be the site. The evening will start with a home run contest at 5 p.m. for any GCHS baseball alumnus from the 1930s through 1990s who lettered as a senior.

At 6:30, there will be a game featuring players from the 1940s, '50s and '60s, with a special format allowing everyone to participate. At 8 p.m., the players from 1970 to the present will play an abbreviated game until approximately 10 p.m.

For more information, call Stegemeier at 451-5808 or 876-4674. Registration is required. For a registration form, write to Granite City Baseball Alumni Committee, P.O. Box 973, Granite City, Ill., 62040.

Racing meeting is today

Tri-City Speedway has scheduled a final rules and general membership meeting for March 8.

The meeting will be held at the Quality Inn in Collinsville from noon to 3 p.m. All participants in the Saturday night program of U.M.P. late models, IMCA modifieds and pro stocks are urged to attend.

For more information, call Wente Enterprises at 314-947-7287.

Team seeking players

A newly-formed Granite City girls 14 and under fast-pitch softball team is looking for a few additional experienced players.

The team will be playing in the Collinsville league and some tournaments. For more information, call Harold at 831-4667 or Joe at 831-5177.

Correction

Rob Grider of Granite City, who caught the record-setting Sauger on March 2, was incorrectly identified as Ken Grider on Page 2B of Thursday's edition.

The Press-Record/Journal regrets the error.
